

Writing for Publication

This session is intended for those new to writing for publication.

e-Learning module

Writing for Publication provides answers to questions and useful resources on planning your article, writing it, getting it reviewed and tasks post-publication.

Group (face to face)

We will consider the different types of publications and the guidelines that usually accompany such research methods. There will be opportunity to brainstorm some ideas. Benefit also from top tips for successful submission from established authors.

Learning Outcomes:

- Consider different types of publication
- How to select the most appropriate journal to submit to
- Consider the various sections of a research paper and what to include in each
- Begin a draft of a potential piece of writing

Duration: 2 hours

Targeted Audience:

For those new to writing for publication.

To arrange tailored training fill out the Training Request Form and select the teaching session(s) you wish to attend.